Early College Program

If you will be a 9th-grade student starting the 2025-26 school year, this four-year program may be a good fit for you! Through the Early College Program (ECP), students can earn nearly two years of transferable college credits while completing their high school education, saving thousands of dollars and valuable time to jump-start their college education.

Students will be required to apply for the Early College Program. The application process will include an essay, teacher and counselor references, a student/parent contract, and more. Additional information will be provided during the virtual Parent and Student Information Meeting.

Frequently Asked Questions

Who can apply for Early College?

Current 8th-grade students, who will be 9th-grade students at the start of the 2025-26 school year, can apply for this four-year program.

What is the required commitment for the program?

Students must make a four-year commitment from 9th through 12th grade to fully participate in and benefit from ECP.

If accepted into the program, where would I attend high school?

Students will attend their home high school within IUSD to complete their high school coursework. Eight spaces are reserved for students from each high school. Should additional spaces become available, other students may be considered for the program. Students can also opt to enroll full-time at San Joaquin HS while participating in the Early College Program.

Would this impact zero period or elective classes during periods 1 and 2?

Yes. Most classes will be virtual or asynchronous, but occasional in-person attendance may be required for assessments and lab activities. IVC classes will be four days per week from 8-9:30 a.m. during the period 1 and period 2 time blocks at each high school. This will allow students to complete all other coursework at their home school, whether that be at a comprehensive high school or San Joaquin.

Are Early College Program (ECP) courses the same as Advanced Placement (AP) courses, and do they count for weighted credits?

No, ECP courses are community college courses that provide college credit and transfer to both UC and CSU systems. AP courses are high school courses that may or may not count for college credit. AP courses are weighted on the high school transcript, while ECP courses are not. However, any weighted points earned from ECP courses could be applied directly within the college application process.

What if I want to earn college credits but cannot participate in this program or I am not accepted into the program?

IUSD understands that our students have many unique needs and goals, which is why we offer students four ways to earn college credits while attending high school. In addition to ECP, this includes Dual Enrollment and College Career Access Pathways Dual Enrollment and Summer College. See Page 3 of this handout or visit ivasecondary.iusd.org/ECP for more information.
